Thailand Series

Going for first International Trip was a dream to me like any of you out there. While huge segment of people who has it as a privilege, there is another segment who has to create their own way. The first step to it is start allocating a part of your salary some way or other for travelling. I started with putting a small part of my salary in RD.

Next, pick up an Asian Destination to begin with! Its a best option to start and since its first choose a travel agency to get a hang of it.
